NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE.

NEW YORK, Wareb 10.—Today's stock market showed a further contraction in the volume of dealings in an aparticule tone to the grading which indicated the # waiting disposition to refrect from speculative activity until conditions became more settled. There is continued meanings in some solution in the large offerings of securities on any substantial advance. There was a stream us attempt in the early dealings today to mark up prices with the purpose of pinching small bear traders and probably, also, for the purpose of realizing at the higher level.

This manocure, which proved so successful yesterday and Tuesday, brought out such abundant offerings that k was soon abundanced and the bears retained control of the field for the rest of the day. A small amount of arthologies buying for London account added in the early resistance to the decline, and the strength of special stocks tended to the same end. St. Paul was well copp ried in anticipation of the dividend declaration, with h was at the rate of five per cent, per annum, though the increase over the recent rate was called an extra dividend.

The total squee of stocks today were 283,400 shates.

Thirteen-Year-Old Boy Homeless in Hampton.

HAILS FROM ENGLAND

odward Jones Tells the Story of His Mysterious Disappearance. Recital at the Baptist Church. Other Matters.

Hampton late Welmeskay night, and the set patheleis story. The lad was been in Cumberlandshire. England, and when he was but five England, and when he was but five England, and when he was but five England, and when he was only earlier of his mooner died, Five years have also find the passed away, having later also father passed away, having later also finds of her he mifortunate boy shipped on the Bretish barken he Baharma, and went to sea in despair. After spending went to sea in despair. After spending the Bretish bark Stedacona. Captain Captain the British bark Stedacona ship he first passed and it was on this ship he first passed and it was on this ship he first passed and it was not this ship he first passed and the was allowed to Knyshort. Nova Scora, and all went well milit fibe vessed was about to sail for Broughton Reads. Just before the bark fit the harder for the South the crew became multinate because the few became multinate because the food.

Investigation on the part of the crew became distributed the ship and went ashore. They were captured during the day by the poisce of Keyspert.

In the day by the poisce of Keyspert, and said up at one of the piers at the sected the hark, and this time all were sected the hark, and this time all were successful in making their vescipe.

Three days durer the crew again description in the few hark, and this time all were successful in making their vescipe.

Johns, when he left the ship went of the bark, and this time all were successful in making their vescipe.

WOORWARD JONES' STORY.

The my carry of Woodward Jones' distinguishment has been explained by the boy himself. It appears that, being late in reaching Sunday school fass Sunday morning, he was afraed to go home, and so, to avoid punishment, he started on the journey which caused his parents so much anxiety and worry. When Woodward left Hampton Sunday morning he went by the Chesapeake & Cho ratified track to Lee Hadl, where neight overtook from. The approach of darkness afarmed the boy and he telegraphed to his grandmother, Mrs. Woodward, in Norfolk, for money. The night telegraph operator at Lee Hadl kindly allowed Woodward to stay in his office all night, and in the morning shared his breakfast with the ladden since he left his home in Hampton early Sunday morning, and it is needless to say that a Strong, healthy boy of twelve can acquire a very large apporting in twenty-four hours.

His grandmother, instead of sending bin money, went to Lee Hall after him on Monday morning and took him brack to Norfolk with the r. Through some misunderstanding the treerand told the story in a few words:

"I left St. John's church from the rear and went across to Union there."

words:
"I left St. John's church from the rest and went across to Union street "I feft St. John's church from the ear unit went across to Union street and up to the Chesapsake & Onio track, which I followed unit it got dark. I had then goiren to Lee Hall. I did not then which to dobut finably the thought same to me that I had better telegraph on my grandmather, who lives in Northelm Western and the tracket of the telegraph speculier let me stay with him all night in the office and twe the some of his breakfast in the morning.

or me some of ms breakfast in the morning.

Grandmother came to get me Montally morning and took me to Norfolk with her. Papa came over to Norfolk researchly for me and he brought me nome here with him. That's all that appened, "

When Woodward left here Sunday worning he had two penwies in his backet. When he come back he still psecket. Which he came back he still bud them.

Mr. Junes yesterday left the following card of thanks at the office of the Hampien Bureau of the Daily Press;

"Mr. and Mrs. Hethert Jones desire to express their carness and grateful thanks to all (especially the Daily Press), who gave them such kind assistance and sympath, in their late trouble."

JOHN LEECH. The Story of His Death as Told by De

Maurier.
On Saturday afternoon, the 28th, I called at his house, No. 6 Terrace, Kensington, with a very elaborate drawing in pencil by myself, which I presented to him as a souvenir, and with which he seemed pencil by myself, which I presented to him as a souvenir, and with which he seemed much pleased.

He was already working at the Punch Almanac for 1805, at a window on the second floor overlooking the street. (I have often gazed up at it since.) He seemed very ill, so sad and depressed that I could scarcely speak to him for sheer sympathy. I felt he would never get through the labor of that almanac and loft him with the most melancholy forebedings.

Monday morning the papers announced his death on Sunday, Oct. 29, from angina pectoris, the very morning after I had seen him. The grave was near Thackeray's, who had died the year before. There were crowds of people, Charles Dickens among them. Canon Hole, a great friend of Leech's and who has written most affectionately about him, read the service, and when the coffin was lowered into the grave John Millais burst into tears and loud sobs, setting an example that was followed all around. We all forget our manhood and cried like women! I can reall to funeral followed all around. We all forgot our manhood and cried like women! I can recall no funeral in my time where simple grief and affection have been so openly and spontaneously displayed by so many strangers as well as friends—not even in France, where people are more demonstrative than here. No burfal in Westminster abbey that I have ever seen ever gave such an impression of universal honor, love and regret.

"Whom the gods love die young." He was only 46!

"Whom the gods love die young." He was only 461

I was then invited to join Punch's staff and take Leech's empty chair at the weekly dinner—and hidden to cut my initials on the table, by his. His monogram as it was carved by him is J. L. under a leech in a bottle, dated 1854, and close by on the same board are the initials W. M. T.

T.
I flatter myself that convivially, at least I flatter myself time convivancy, as cases, my small D. M., carved in imponentable eak, will go down to postarity in rather distinguished company!—"Social Pictorial Satire," by George Du Maurier, in Har per's Magazine.

DRY TORTUGAS.

DRY TORTUGAS.

It is a good Using that the American people have had their actoration called to the Dry Tortagas. Only a small percent, of our dakes had a sheath ago any knowledge of that huge old work offer than it was used as a military prison during the war between the United States and the Southern Confederacy, Fort Jefferston, which dominates the key, covers thirteen acres and cost five million dollars. Until we occupy and possess Cuba, the Dry Tortugas will serve us very well as the key to the guif.

Wallace—You ought to come around to the little German restaurant where I lunch. They've a cook there who can fix things to perfection, though the prices are a little steep.
